

Level: bachelor
Course title: Beverages with Geographical Indication (T357)
Status: elective
ECTS: 5
Requirements: none
Learning objectives Defining beverages with geographical indication. To introduce different kinds of beverages and drinks, their geographical origin and characteristics.
Learning outcomes After adopting relevant knowledge, student will be capable for recognition of various geographically indicated beverages. Acquired knowledge should enable students to be more competitive in their future work in hotels and restaurants.
Syllabus Theoretical instruction Theoretical background of beverages with geographical indication, defining general concepts of fermentation and distillation. General story of wines, wine regions in Europe (France, Italy, Germany, Spain, Greece, Portugal), Wine regions in the USA, Wines of Asia and Africa, Australia, New Zealand. Production of wine, special sorts of wines, wine labels. General story about beers and breweries. Schnapps. Alcoholic drinks (Brandies, Whiskey, Vodka, Gin, Rum, etc.). Other beverages with geographical indication (e.g. tea, coffee, cocoa, etc.). Beverages with geographical indication from Serbia. Tasting. Practical instruction Practical lectures methodologically and thematically follow the theoretical construction. Preparations for conducting research on the course topic and issues through case studies from Serbia and worldwide.
Weekly teaching load 4 (60)				Other:
Lectures: 2	Exercises: 2	Other forms of teaching:	Student research:	