Prerequisites: As the course is focused on performing piano pieces, it is desirable for the student to have basic skills of playing the piano in order to follow the set programme or a programme of a similar difficulty level. However, if the student has more, less or very little prior knowledge, it is possible to adjust the programme to his or her current abilities so as to allow for individual development of the skills required by the subject Piano Practicum.

Course Aims: Development of a professional and broadly educated musician; mastering the knowledge and skills of piano playing; understanding the characteristics of different epoch's styles, especially the late-twentieth-century music.

Learning Outcomes: Students are expected to upgrade their performing skills and skills to use the piano both as a harmonic and polyphonic instrument. Students will understand better the aesthetics of piano sound and problems of artistic creativity.

Syllabus: Practical performance of the piano literature of various epochs, styles and forms; by analyzing the set compositions, students are to master them and solve the performing problems at the micro and macro level; playing scales and arpeggios; sight reading literature of all epochs. The programme is performed from memory (with the exception of sight reading).

Required Reading: Arthur Frackenpohl: Harmonization at the Piano; Sight reading (ABRSM (Associated Board of Royal Schools of Music) and similar examples for sight reading;

Set programme for the exam: one polyphonic piece of music, one etude, a sonata movement in a fast tempo (usually the first), one piece of music of own choice (from the epochs of Classicism, Romanticism, 20th or 21st century).

Examples of the difficulty level: French suites. Two-part inventions by J. S. Bach, G. F. Handel's suites; Etudes by Henri Bertini (op. 29. and op. 32), Burgmiler (op. 109), Heller (op. 45, op. 46, op.47), Czerny (op. 299, op. 740), Loeschhorn (op. 136); Sonatas by Galuppi, Cimarosa, Haydn, Mozart, etc.; Compositions of any composer of student's own choice – preferably the 20th- and 21st-century pieces.
